People who wish to use the dark arts or black magic are destined to fail in everything they do. They will not

People who wish to use the dark arts or black magic are destined to fail in everything they do. They will not understand the true impact they have on others or truly on them themselves. We are all One consciousness experiencing itself subjectively and everyone around you is an extension of yourself.

Projecting negative energy on another is putting it even worse onto yourself. That is why true white magic spells that actually work user who is searching to learn how to get magic powers will never use their magical abilities or magic spells to hurt others. The true foundation of learning white magic is to gain the best lifestyle one can live. You want to use your magic spells to help others and to benefit them and yourself in all ways. It is suggested that you learn different magical techniques and rituals that you can use to gain greater power over yourself and your own life.

There are plenty of different magic spells and rituals one can use. One that I personally use every day is tarot cards. They are a form of divination and given time, they can become very accurate and true. It is also best to have rituals where you project intention into the desired effect with whatever ritual you use.

A great technique to bring about harmony, love, and peace is to light incense sticks while chanting love spells and prayers as you surround your home with the energy. Another idea you can use incense for is to remove negative energies from your home. While you are using the incense, spread it around your living area and have a door open for all the negative energy to leave through. While removing negative energies and spirits say prayers that announce the termination and disconnection of negative energies and spirits and banish them out the open door or window of your home.

Another important facet of understanding how to get magical powers is being able to control and manipulate your own personal mental state. The world and everything that exists within it, is a mental creation. This reality is just as fluid and liquid and constructed by thought. There are endless layers and dimensions to this reality and the underlying reality is that everything is mental.

The All of this universe is a mental creation. What you perceive and are is part of Mind. That is why being able to control and manipulate your own mental state is integral for having your white magic spells that actually work, do what they do. It is absolutely imperative to manipulate reality by first controlling and using your own mind and consciousness to carry you.

Your conscious mind is a gatekeeper and it should be used to guard the empowered and fertile landscape that is your subconscious mind. Your subconscious mind is connected to the infinite intelligence that creates and holds this entire reality that we call our lives together. Being able to control and alter what reaches your subconscious is absolutely important. Being able to manipulate your subconscious mind is a magical act. Being able to receive messages or send messages to your subconscious mind is a magical act.

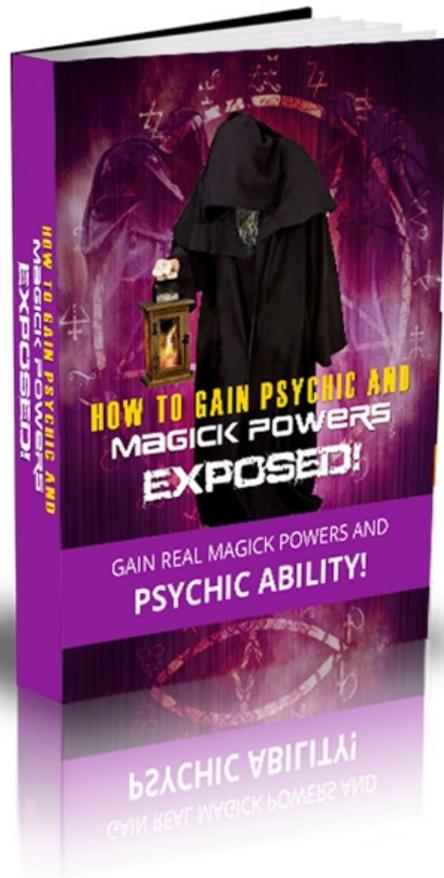

Your subconscious mind is directly in contact with all of reality. This is how people will notice they have their prayers answered or experience miracles from a Higher Power. Your real Higher Power is your subconscious mind. Being able to control and use this powerful and fertile soil, allows you to plant thought seeds that will transmute into physical reality.
